Clashes of Knowledge

Orthodoxies and Heterodoxies in Science and Religion

“Clashes of Knowledge” is the first volume in a book series called “Knowledge and Space” dealing with spatial disparities of knowledge and the impact of the spatial context on the production and application of knowledge.

Do traditional distinctions between "belief" and "knowledge" still make sense? How are differences between knowledge and belief understood in different cultural contexts? This book explores conflicts between various types of knowledge, especially between orthodox and heterodox knowledge systems, ranging from religious fundamentalism to heresies within the scientific community itself. Beyond addressing many fields in the academy, the book discusses learned individuals interested in the often puzzling spatial and cultural disparities of knowledge and clashes of knowledge.

This book explores differences between knowledge and belief in different cultural contexts, discusses the shifting boundaries of science in the context of historical change and addresses the often puzzling spatial and cultural disparities of knowledge.
